Power button cover for computer case

Because whoever designed this type of computer case has never seen a cat, or heard of one, for that matter, I had to design this cover so they don't shutdown my computer while I'm using my ninja 3D design skills to create stuff.

Print the pieces separated, use supports for the angled one if you feel like it.

You need a piece of wire to act like the hinge and some double-sided tape to stick it to the case, also you need a cat to test if this works properly.
